Mr. William J. Casey
Director of Central Intelligence
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Mr. Casey:

My name is Jay Andersen, and I live in Sacramento, California. This summer I will be attending the 45th annual Junior Statesmen of America Summer School Program to be held at Stanford University, July 14 - August 10. The summer school teaches its students American government, speech communication, debate skills, and the qualities of leadership. Furthermore, it is an opportunity to make many new and longlasting friends. I have enclosed a brochure explaining the summer program in more detail.

We have been asked to come to the summer school with a topic of controversy, which we will debate after thorough research. I have chosen the topic of terrorism and would greatly appreciate your sending me any information dealing with this subject. It would be most helpful if the material focused on some general questions regarding the topic of terrorism. These would include:

1. What constitutes terrorism?
2. What authority does the United States have to retaliate against terrorism?
3. What is the role and responsibility of the following individuals and agencies in responding to terrorism: President, Congress, Secretary of State, Attorney General, CIA, and others?
4. How has the United States dealt with terrorism in the past?
5. What proposals have been made to deal more effectively with terrorism in the future?
6. What are the arguments for prompt retaliation to terrorism?
7. What are arguments against retaliation?

I would greatly appreciate your assistance, and it would be beneficial to me to receive the information by Monday, July 22, so I can continue at a good pace with my research. My summer school address at Stanford University will be:

JAY ANDERSEN
The Junior Statesmen Summer School
Stern Hall, Escondido Road
Stanford, California 94305

Thank you very much for your time and efforts; I look forward to learning more about this important and controversial topic.

Sincerely,
